DAUNTING TASK:
TONS OF DIRT WORK FOR EXTREME MAKEOVER HOME

With demolition of the Joneses' old house complete, Shoemaker Homes, Warren Excavation, and Delta Construction and Land Company will now begin the massive task of laying the groundwork for the new home. Warren Excavation and Delta Construction and Land, two local companies, have volunteered time, materials, and equipment to ensure that the Jones home will sit securely on a firm foundation.

Doug Warren, President of Warren Excavation stated, "Shoemaker Homes asked me to assist with this build and God has blessed me and I wanted to give back to the community in this way. I am honored not only that Scott asked me to participate but that Warren Excavation will have a part in changing the Jones family's lives forever."

The dirt work needed for the foundation work will be extreme. A normal build typically requires 480,000 cubic yards of dirt. For the Joneses' new home, however, 5,250,000 cubic yards of dirt will be needed. "Because of the slope of the land and the condition of the soil, we are having to take these necessary measures," explained Scott Shoemaker. Dirt work will continue throughout the night. The foundation will begin to be poured by sunrise tomorrow.
